

We are happy to announce that, effective from July, 1st 2011, our Company has officially moved to the new headquarters: a 7'000 m2 production plant located in San Vittore, Graubünden, Switzerland. As officially planned, panel production has already recommenced as from end of May, 2011, immediately after the revamping of the panel line - following the update technologies - at the new plant. We would be glad to welcome you in Graubünden in the near future so as you may become acquainted with our new facilities and organization. Allegra, see you soon!
